Identity Security in the Cloud: How are we as CISOs Adapting and Simplifying a Roadmap to Build an Identity Security Strategy?

You are invited to participate in a unique dinner roundtable discussion hosted in in the private dining room at Kerridge's Bar & Grill at The Corinthia in London.

Connect with peers for an energetic debate on the practical approaches, realities, challenges around identity security. Cloud adoption is at an all-time high and predictions point towards the majority of future failures being a result of improper management of identities, access and privileges.

Sponsored by SailPoint, hosted by Pulse Conferences, you are invited to join the discussion in the inspiring and private dining setting in this prestigious venue to hear what CISO peers are doing to simplify identity management projects to protect against cyber threats in a diverse workforce and that target digital identities.

Join Pulse, SailPoint and peers for a discussion held under The Chatham House Rule.

The CISO roundtable dinner is hosted in the Private Dining Room, which is designed to showcase our own private chef. There will be a short 10-15 minute break in the identity discussion whilst we are treated to watching the chef prepare and cook the main course in front of us at a kitchen space within the wood-panelled dining room.

Key talking points –

- Has the speed of your organisation's cloud adoption caught you off guard?
- What is next and how does this impact identity management?
- Where does zero trust fit in?
- What metrics get the best response for identity security?
- How do you adapt and simplify a roadmap to build an identity security strategy for the cloud?
- What are resilience strategies and tools that are working, not working?
- How can we build an effective identity centric security strategy without re-inventing the wheel?
- How can we find the balance between agility and security with IAM?
- How can we get better at controlling privilege change?

Limited places – book your place around the chef's table today!

Many thanks. We hope that you can join peers for what promises to be a dynamic discussion, a top culinary experience and great company!

Yours sincerely,
Team Pulse
